5. In mid-July, the construction of bunkers was completed about 1 km north of the Artillerie Kaserne and west of Leipziger Strasse. Eight large wooden frames, about 4 meters high and with a piece of wood about 1.5 meters square were arranged in a row placed at a right angle to the bunkers. Two watch towers were occupied by sentries from mid-July until 18 August.

- 25X1 6. During the period from 18 July to 5 August, the barracks installation west of Leipziger Strasse was partially occupied by about 250 to 300 soldiers who wore red-bordered black epaulets. About 80 percent of these troops were artillery insignia. Groups of about 80 soldiers each were seen engaged in intensive physical training and receiving instruction on 2 x 45-mm AT guns and 2 x 76.2-mm AT guns. Truck [ ] left the barracks installation toward the town. **

- 25X1 7. During the period from 18 July to 5 August, the barracks installation east of Leipziger Strasse was occupied to capacity by about 1,000 soldiers wearing red-bordered black epaulets. About 60 percent had artillery and 20 percent had motor transport insignia. All windows were brightly lighted at dusk. Numerous recruits were seen. Groups up to 100 soldiers were seen drilling without arms and receiving instruction on 3 x 100-mm AT guns, 1 x 45-mm AT gun and 1 x 76.2-mm AT gun. Between 35 and 40 soldiers were conducting signal practice with cable reels, field telephones and portable radio sets. An athletic event with about 600 spectators took place in the barracks yard on 20 July. A total of 350 soldiers organized into four groups fell in on 2 August and subsequently drilled in close order.
